Brand Heart

Brand Story

The story of UFarms is one of expanding access to gardening in urban and suburban neighborhoods. We help farmers to find gardening plots. We support homeowners, or hosts, to add amenities to their homes or rental properties, increase property equity, make passive income and more. UFarms connects farmers and hosts to increase access to the freshest and most local food, cultivate a deeper connection to the earth and foster a stronger sense of community.

Apartment renters and condo dwellers face many barriers to accessing gardening near their homes. Homeowners, or hosts, often have space to garden but lack the time or interest to make their land more profitable and beneficial to the community. We see a chance to help both farmers and hosts by growing the number of gardening plots in urban and suburban communities everywhere, resulting in fresher food and other benefits.

Our story began in 2023 when many early team members met through the Climatebase Fellowship, an educational program geared to the climate technology industry. We brought our passion for climate solutions, community farming, startup business development, digital marketing and more to provide this service. That's when we founded UFarms.

We know that climate change, the epidemic of loneliness and a lack of community are some of the most pressing issues of our time. UFarms is a solution that will address all three, cultivating a world where people are more connected to each other and to the earth.

Brand Purpose

To make urban gardening accessible to everybody, empowering people to grow their own food and to be a part of climate solutions at the most local level. We strive to create a world where gardening is not only a practical endeavor but also a source of joy and connection.

Mission

To expand urban farming through an intuitive solution that connects farmers and hosts, fostering a sense of community and connection to the earth.

Vision

Over the next five years, we aim to be present in one million backyards across the USA, opening up access to millions of people who seek to participate in community agriculture, localize food systems, and earn passive income.

Brand Values

Trust & Safety

We prioritize trust and safety, ensuring a secure marketplace environment through rigorous vetting and verification processes.

Community

We encourage collaboration and connection among farmers, hosts and their larger community.

Accessibility

We strive to make urban gardening accessible to all, minimizing barriers and simplifying the process for farmers and hosts.

Audience

Homeowning Customers/Prospects

Our home owning customers are our #1 priority and we build our business to maximize their benefits.

Farmer Customers/Prospects

Our Farmer Customers are a high priority and we build our business to make it easy for them to access a gardening plot close to where they live.

Investors

We aim to build a business that is attractive to investors and well positioned to secure additional funding as needed.

Partners

Our commitment to community extends to partners like local urban agricultural organizations. We build partnerships with clear benefits to each organization, emphasizing our shared values and goals.

Media

We work with media sources and take opportunities to reach more homeowners, farmers and other audiences in a way that will grow the business.

Community-facing businesses

We notice community-facing businesses or organizations that have land and an interest in starting a garden.

City Officials

We get in front of city officials so they know what we're doing ahead of time. We intend to nurture relationships with them to open up doors and connect us with others in a community. This will allow us to grow in different cities and higher levels.

Brand Platform

Brand Promise

We aim to provide an inclusive, supportive, and innovative platform that empowers individuals to cultivate thriving urban gardens. Our platform serves as a catalyst for change, providing a space where individuals can connect, learn, and participate in urban gardening. We prioritize user experience and community engagement.

Brand Positioning Statement

Our company occupies a unique position in the market, offering a marketplace where farmers and hosts can connect with each other and the earth in an urban or suburban neighborhood. We offer intuitive solutions that empower individuals to participate in urban farming, fostering community, sustainability, and personal growth.

Audience & Tone

Who is Our Audience?

Our audience comprises diverse stakeholders, including homeowners, farmers, investors, and community organizations. Our tone is playful yet trustworthy, reflecting our commitment to accessibility, safety, and community. We primarily aim to speak to farmers who are searching for urban gardening plots close to their home.

What is our Tone of Voice?

Our tone is playful, inviting, inclusive, and responsible, fostering a sense of new opportunities, social connection, and trust among our audience.

How We Do It

We are confident and build trust, emphasizing the importance of urban gardening and community connection.

Brand Messaging Pillars

The core set of beliefs that we offer our audiences. No single pillar defines our brand, but the unique blend of our pillars set us apart. The pillars inform the substance of our brand message.

Accessible Gardening

Our platform makes urban gardening accessible to everyone, simplifying the process and minimizing barriers.

Community Connection

We foster a sense of community among farmers, homeowners, and their larger community, encouraging collaboration and support.
